Conflict of Interest

It is the policy of CJIC to ensure balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor in any articles published in CJIC. All authors submitting an article to CJIC are expected to disclose any real or apparent conflict(s) of interest that may have a direct bearing on the content of the article. This pertains to relationships with pharmaceutical companies, biomedical device manufacturers, or other corporations whose products or services are related to the subject matter of the article. The intent of this policy is not to prevent an author with a potential conflict of interest from publishing and article in CJIC. It is merely intended that any potential conflict would be identified openly so that the readers may form their own judgements about the article with the full disclosure of the facts. It remains for the reader to determine whether the authors' outside interests may reflect a possible bias in either the exposition or the conclusions presented.
